Life Time

In the middle of the forest there was a big, grey castle surrounded by a deep moat. Over the moat was a bridge which lifted up to portcullis and the thick wooden door. It was a sunny, windy day where the red and white striped flag was blowing in the wind.

In the castle, lived a girl called Zahra and a boy called Nikita. They lived they were the princess of & the prince of Netherlands Kingdom. They lived with the King and the queen in the tall castle. One day, they were feeling bored and decided to go for a walk in the dark woods. They took a basket of food as the journey might have taken them a long time.

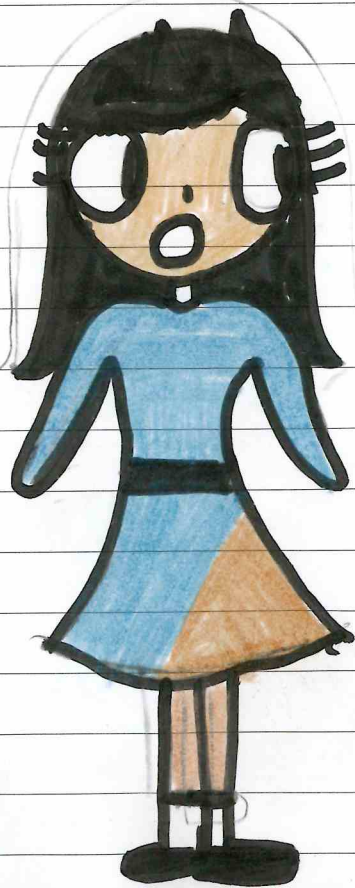

"Where are we going?" Nikita asked Zahra worryingly. "He haven't told anyone we were leaving the castle".

Zahra replied "I'm not worried about that! I'm not worried about that more concerned about how we will get past the porticullas without being seen."

The two of them looked at each other blankly, as to say what they were doing was a good idea.

Just then, they heard a faint noise coming from behind the statue that was placed just inside the castle. To their surprise, out jumped Babo, their lovable, huggable, cheeky pet monkey. "Take me with you!" Babo pleaded Zahra and Nikita.

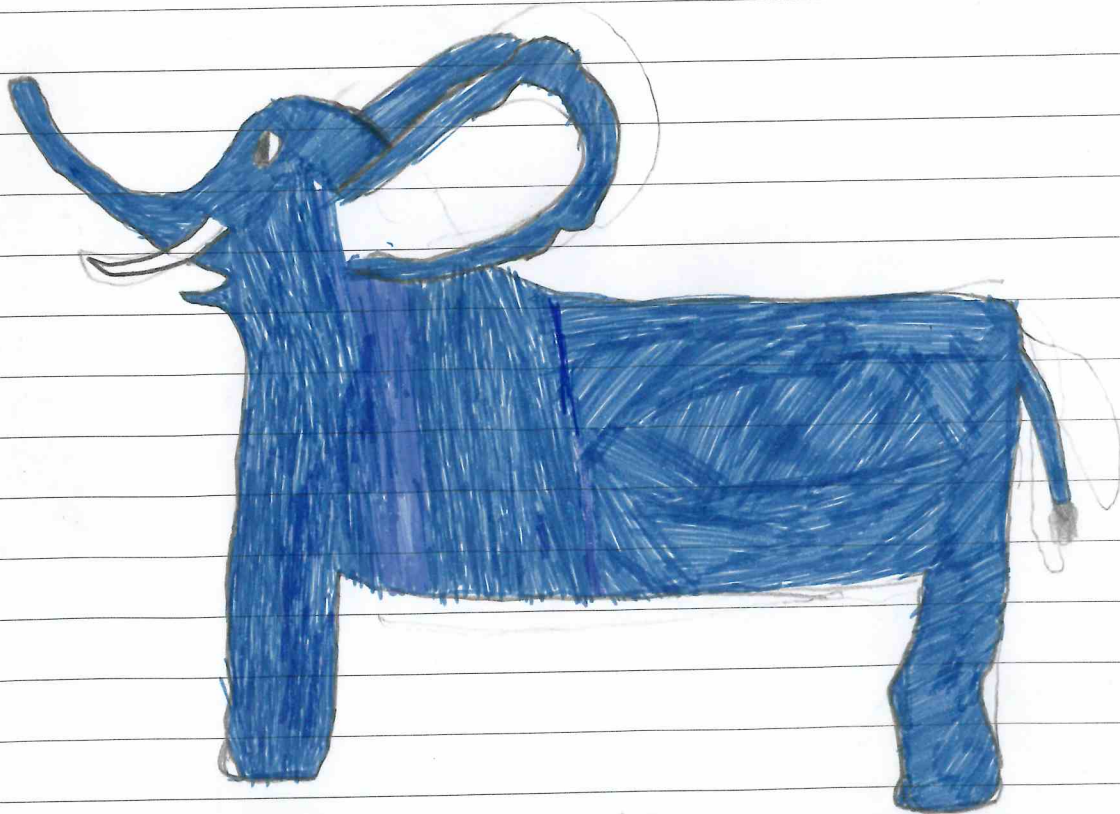

Babo, didn't want to stay in Netherlands, he wanted to come with them on their adventure.

They agreed that he could come along, as long as he didn't keep everyone in sight as they needed to be discreet. They did not want anyone to see them leave Neverland...

The three adventures waited until dark had enveloped Neverland. before sneaking towards the portcullis. The children, and Bobo of course, peeked out from the statue of the former King of Neverland.

"What do we do now?" Meant Nikita as she looked down the long, dark corridor down the portcullis. At the end of the corridor, they could see the marching footsteps of the Great Elephant guard, Blue the Brave. Blue had been the castle's guard for the children's lives and even their parents' entire lives and Blue would never let them leave. Blue would remember the last time the children left and got themselves hurt, elephants never forget.

Zahra was getting impatient watching the guard move back and forth. Both Bobo began bouncing on the spot, he just loved hugs and hugging everyone, especially Blue! Quick as a flash, Bobo took off from behind the pillar, arms outstretched, ready to hug Blue but before he got two steps away Zahra had wrapped her hand around Bobo's mouth. "Shush Bobo, no one is supposed to know," Zahra whispered. The children stood thinking for a while before an idea popped into Nikita's head. PING!

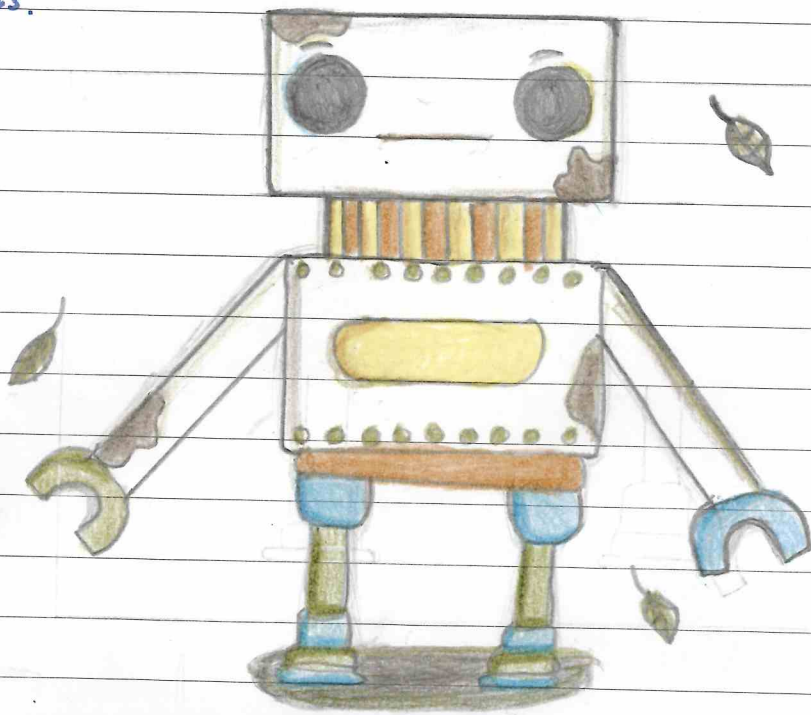

"I know! What if Bobo distracts Blue with a super, enormous huggy wuggy? You know, the air squeezing ones!" Nikita excitedly whispered to Zahra.

"Brilliant idea!" Both Zahra and Bobo replied, nodding their heads like crazy. So they sent Bobo off down the corridor to squeeze Blue and the two children snuck out of the castle and into the night. It was a cloudless night and the air was freezing cold. "Urgh, it's so so foggy," moaned Nikita.

"Don't you mean foggy?" Zahra responded. Nikita just gave her a bombastic side eye and kept walking. After what felt like ages the two children heard a strange sound from up ahead. It sounded like someone crying. They rushed forwards, their kind hearts squashing any fear they had. In a clear patch of the forest the two children peeped from behind some bushes. What they saw blew their socks off.

They saw a strange looking character unlike any creature they had seen before. The creature was metallic, with jagged edges and large flashing eyes.

Bobo immediately went up to the creature whom he assumed was an alien. "Please to meet you," said Chip. "I come from the Anadrome Galaxy and I am made from microchips. I am extremely intelligent and I can help you solve any problem."

"Really," replied Zahra her mind filled with wonder. "Oh my gosh, I have been wishing for my entire life."

"In that case", added the delightful alien called Chip, "speak up. Your wish is my command."

"Well," continued Zahra overwhelmed with excitement, "I wish that Nikita, Bobo and I could leave the castle whenever we want. We want to explore the world and perhaps even visit children in other parts of the world." I have heard of a wonderful school called Alexandra Primary School. I have been told the children there are enthusiastic and delightful. Perhaps we could visit there."

"Your wish has been granted", chuckled the Chip. And so it was from that day Nikita, Zahra and Bobo roamed freely and explored places all over the world.

The End

In the middle of the forest rested an enormous grey castle. In it, lived a prince and a princess and they're curious about what's on the outskirts. But the question is does their curiosity get the best of them?

Or, do they end up getting caught?
